

THE LAWYER
OF THE FUTURE:
Building a high-
performance legal team

Eight hours remote learning

Held over 4 days

THE COURSE AT A GLANCE

It is no longer enough for a lawyer to simply "know the law", these days lawyers need a broader range of skill sets.

The legal services market is going through a period of significant change, driven by technology, ongoing pressures on legal budgets, the ever-expanding role of the General Counsel or Chief Legal Officer, and demands from business for the legal function to better align with it and offer better value. This course will help legal practitioners to better understand the role of people, technology and process in the current legal environment.
